Fair Notice

Is hereby given that I will prosecute February 5, 1890. -- 1m.

After due consideration of the liberal patronage extended to me during past five years allowing my minds' eye to take a retrospective view of the gradual financial progress and enlargement of my business since my location in Marlboro-my heart wells up with gratitude to my many customers and friends for their ready recognition of my untiring efforts to establish a reliable jewelry business in Bennettsville. The just criticisms of all those with whom I have had dealings is a sufficient guarantee of my honest and honorable intentions, and if I, or any of my employees, have by accident misrepresented during the past five years, I am not only willing but ready to make good such error. It is not now and never has been my intention to attempt to hoodwink my customers by claiming to sell goods at and below cost, but I do claim to sell

Honest Goods at Reasonable Prices!

I also claim to sell the same class of goods from 10 to 50 per cent LESS than city jewelers. There is no line of business that is so susceptible to the subtle machinations of unprincipled dealers as the Watch and Jewelry business. Owing to the free that it is impossible for the shrewdest business man to correctly estimate the value of goods in our line, without previous application, training and stucy, it is also true that it is a very difficult matter to conclusive ly prove to our eistomers that we give full value for each dollar spent at our place of business. Therefore, we can only reiterate our oft-repeated and always practiced assertion, that in every instance and under all circumstances our customers will find us
